

KNIVES SHARPENED.

Old Scores will be settled in the Illinois Senatorial Contest.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 12.—The news that Geo. R. Davis has announced himself as a candidate for Senator to succeed Cullom has started some long memories and aroused slumbering antagonisms. Davis was a member of Congress when the Republican National Convention was held in Chicago in 1884. He went to that convention as a delegate and voted for Blaine under peculiar circumstances. When President Arthur's friends organized to press his claims at the Convention they raised a fund for campaign purposes. Davis professed friendship for the President and a willingness to do all he could. To him was entrusted the management of the primaries in a certain portion of Chicago. He was asked how much money he needed, and he replied that $2500 would be enough. The amount was made $2600, and Davis undertook to carry the primaries, and did so. He was elected a delegate, and it was presumed that he controlled other delegates for Arthur. But the astonishment of the Arthur managers was very great as they saw the vote that the Illinois delegation gave Blaine when the roll was called. They demanded a poll of the delegation to locate the traitors. When George R. Davis was called he answered "Blaine."

Subsequently Davis showed himself at an Arthur caucus and was ordered out, with a threat that if he did not go he would be thrown out.

Some of the friends of President Arthur to whom the story of Davis's treachery was known, have passed away, notably among them the late Postmaster General Patton. But others are living, among them Melville F. Stone. From one of these original Arthur men the story as told is obtained, with the declaration that these Arthur men will see that whatever is the issue of the Illinois senatorial fight George R. Davis will not be successful.

WORTH TEN MILLIONS.

The Business Section of Streator Claimed by a Woman.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Mrs. D. W. Moody of this city is preparing to lay claim to property in Streator valued at $10,000,000. She claims to have documentary evidence that a tract in the heart of that town was granted to her relatives by the government over sixty years ago and has never legally been transferred. The tract consists of 160 acres on which are located several banks, the opera house, city park and prominent residences of the city. Mr. Moody says the city council of Streator has offered her $250,000 for her claim. She says she will shortly bring suit in La Salle county for its recovery.

The patrons of Dr. Price's Baking Powder having tasted its merits commend its value.

Cycling Notes.

A. A. Zimmerman, the champion cyclist, returned to America yesterday. A Pittsburg newspaper is collecting contributions in behalf of Myrtle Hopkings, to whom it refers as the Chicago girl who was run down and crippled for life by an overgrown specimen of the genus road hog.

The authorities of Toronto, Ont., are considering a measure for the control of bicycle repairs and dealers, so as to suppress cycle thievery. Their plan is copied from the Chicago one.

At a meeting of the L. A. W. racing board held in New York yesterday, among some recommendations for changes in the racing rules, it was suggested among other things that all racing men in any way connected with the trade should be declared in class B, that rules be changed so to exclude women from participating in races and that road racing should be condemned and the L. A. W. urged to co-operate with local authorities in suppressing same.

PROPOSALS INVITED

For the Purchase of 5 Per Cent.
Government Bonds.

A NEW FIFTY MILLION DOLLAR ISSUE

To be Floated, Redeemable in Coin at the Pleasure of the Government
After Ten Years—Instructions to Bidders for Bonds.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The following circular was issued yesterday afternoon, inviting proposals for 5 per cent. bonds.

THE TREASURY DEPARTMENT.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 13, 1894.

By virtue of authority contained in the act of Congress entitled "An Act to Provide for the Resumption of Specie Payments," approved January 14, 1875, the secretary of the treasury hereby gives public notice that sealed proposals will be received at the treasury department, office of the secretary, until 12 o'clock, noon, on the 24th day of November, 1894, for United States 5 per cent. bonds, in either registered or coupon form, dated February 1, 1894, redeemable in coin at the pleasure of the government, after ten years from the date of their issue, and bearing interest payable quarterly in coin at the rate of 5 per centum per annum.

Bidders whose proposals are accepted will be required to pay 20 per cent. in gold coin or gold certificates, upon the amount of their bids as soon as they receive notice of the acceptance of such bids and to pay in like coin or certificates an additional 20 per cent. at the expiration of each ten days thereafter until the whole is paid; but they may, at their option, pay the entire amount of their bids when notified of acceptance, or at any time when an installment is payable. The first payment, however, of not less than 20 per cent. must be made when the bidder receives notice of the acceptance of his proposal.

The denominations of the bonds will be $50 and upwards, and bidders, in their proposals, state the denominations desired, whether registered or coupon; the price which the bidder proposes to pay; the place where it is desired that the bonds shall be delivered, and the office, whether that of the treasurer of the United States or an assistant treasurer of the United States, where it will be most convenient for the bidder to deposit the amounts of his payments.

The bonds will be dated February 1, 1894, in order to make the new issue uniform as to date with the existing issue, but interest thereon will begin November 1, 1894, and bidders will be required to pay accrued interest at the rate of 5 per cent. on the face value of their bonds from November 1 to the date of dates of payment. The total issue of bonds, in pursuance of this notice will not exceed the sum of $50,000,000.

The secretary of the treasury hereby expressly reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

All proposals should be addressed to the secretary of the treasury, Washington, D. C., and should be distinctly marked "Proposals for the Purchase of 5 per cent. Bonds." Blank forms for proposals may be had on application to the secretary of the treasury.

J. G. CARLISLE,
Secretary of the Treasury.

The Success of the New Bond Issue Already Assured.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The success of the new government bond issue is already assured. It can be stated on the highest authority that Drexel, Morgan & Co. and Speyer & Co. and John A. Stewart, president of the United States Trust Co., and his following stand ready to take the whole issue. Drexel, Morgan & Co. and Speyer & Co. have sounded the feeling in London regarding the new issue and have found it very favorable. They will accordingly put in bids for large amounts of the bonds and if the public subscriptions come in slowly, will together take the bulk of the new issue.

THE VERDICT OF THE COURT

In the Case of Charles F. Norton, Temporarily in Charge of the Cruiser Adams.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The proceedings and findings in the case of Lieut. Charles F. Norton, who was temporarily in charge of the cruiser Adams when she ran aground in Behring sea, reached the navy department yesterday. Lieut. Norton was charged with culpable negligence in failing to take proper soundings, neglecting to take proper care and attention, failing to make proper allowances for known currents and running the vessel at high speed during a fog, in violation of the international regulations for preventing collisions.

Secretary Herbert has not yet approved the verdict of the court, which is understood to have found the accused guilty of an error of judgment only, and sentenced him to a reprimand from the secretary of the navy.

"STRANGLER'S ROW"

In Denver, Col., the Scene of Another Foul and Mysterious Murder.

DENVER, Col., Nov. 13.—"Strangler's Row" was the scene of another murder this morning. About 1:15 o'clock 975 Market street was visited by the fiend whose strange hobby is to choke women to death, and when he left the place Kiku Oyama, a Japanese girl, was a corpse, with the marks of the strangler's work upon her throat.

This morning's murder was committed in the row of houses in which Lena Tapper and Marie Contasotti were strangled. The mode of her death, too, was exactly similar. After partially choking her, the murderer completed the work by tying a towel around her neck and tightening the noose until life left her body.

Kiku Oyama was 24 years old, and emigrated from Japan to Chicago with the representatives of her native land to the Columbian exposition. There she made the acquaintance of Imi Oyama, and together they came to Denver last November. Imi Oyama says he was the dead woman's cook, but the neighbors say he lived with her as her husband. He was the first person to enter the Japanese girl's room after her death.

In the room where the murdered woman was found there was every indication that a desperate struggle had taken place. The bed clothes were disturbed, and the whole spread of the bed was covered in spots with blood. A Turkish bath towel had been used to choke the woman, and there was another towel lying on the dressing table. The first towel was twisted into a rope, and there is every evidence that the victim was thrown upon her back upon the bed after the towel had been placed about her neck and then deliberately garroted.

No money was found in the room and it is believed the woman was robbed. Imi Oyama and several other Japanese have been arrested on suspicion, but so far as known not the slightest evidence has been discovered to implicate them in the crime. The excitement among the women inhabiting the part of the city where the murder by strangulation occurred, is intense.

Would Gladly See Peace Restored.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—The Cologne Gazette says that Germany, while determined to preserve absolute neutrality in the hostilities between China and Japan, would gladly see peace restored as the result of the mediation of the United States.

—William S. Sturgis, aged 70 years, the Chicago millionaire whose suit for millions against Charles B. Farwell, of Chicago, has made such a stir in legal circles, and who was adjudged insane by a commission in lunacy on November 5, died Monday evening at the Glenmary home in Oswego, N. Y., of senile dementia.

Vessel Wreckage in Lake Michigan.

MACKINAW CITY, Mich., Nov. 14.—The captain of the steamer Parnell, which arrived here yesterday morning, reported having passed through vessel wreckage in Lake Michigan, off Sleeping Bear point, Monday afternoon. He also saw a steamer ashore at South Manitou island, but was unable to get near enough to make out whether it was a large or small vessel.

A Voluntary Increase in Wages.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 14.—The Tyson Chromo Co. has notified its 350 employees that on December 1 their wages will be increased 10 per cent. Six months ago the company reduced wages, owing, it was said, to business depression and unfavorable tariff legislation. The return of the protectionist party to power is alleged to be the cause of the increase of wages.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1894.

THE 100 cent dollar had a great many friends in the recent election.

THE Democratic candidate for governor in Pennsylvania only carried 13 counties Nov. 6.

Who was it that said after the election in 1892 that the Democratic party was born to rule?

DAVID B. HILL succeeded in carrying but three counties in the great state of New York at the recent election.

WHERE will the Democratic party find that good western Democrat for president who can carry his state in 1896?

THE result of the recent election has cured Senator Cameron, of Pennsylvania, of all desire to become a Populist.

THE Democratic party will hardly attempt to throw the next election of president into the next house by fusions with other parties.

THE coal miners of Schuykill county, Pa., gave Cleveland 2251 plurality in 1892. At the late election they gave the Republicans a majority of 2,000. They evidently don't like Democratic free coal.

JOHN M. PALMER probably reads with much concern the figures which tell him that the senators-elect this year, under the Democratic gerrymander, who will be the holdovers in 1896, stand 23 Republicans to 3 Democrats.

When the Wilson bill passed the house his admirers took Mr. Wilson upon their shoulders and carried him about the chamber. Nov. 6, 1894, the victims of Mr. Wilson's bill carried him home on a shutter a "dead duck."

THE hottest contest in the campaign was that between D. T. Littler and B. F. Caldwell for the senatorship in the Sangamon county district. Both are wealthy and were never cramped for funds to do anything necessary to advance their interests. Littler was elected.

SOME Democrat in the south, since the election, sent to Senator Hill an elegant coffin by express in care of Tammany. That organization refused to accept the property, and is about to bring suit against the express company for insisting upon delivering it according to contract.

EVERYBODY who believes in the principles of the Republican party should promptly cast his lot with it, and every body who wants to defeat the Republican party, regardless of principle, should join the Democratic party. There is no use in spending a lifetime in a small party that has no future.

THIS would be a magnificent time for all classes of people to study the recent interview touching political parties and the duties of American citizens, by Archibald Ireland. It is one of the most timely opinions ever uttered. The result of the election following close upon it makes it the more forcible.

THE depression of business caused by the return of the Democrats to power seriously affected receipts at the custom houses and from internal revenues. When the business of the country is depressed the revenues of the government are depreciated, and for that reason the government has been running behind in its receipts. This was true when the McKinley bill was administered by the Democrats, but it was not true when it was administered by the Republicans. It is true of the Wilson bill, and will remain true so long as it is a law, because its effect is to prevent business reaching its normal state while it remains the law. It cannot be repealed before 1897, and then business will again be put back to where it was in 1892.

THE Democratic press is now charging that the Republican press has, since the election, changed from calamity howlers to advocates of the revival of business, and claim that business was all the while becoming better under the Wilson bill and that the election does not repeat that bill. In answer to this it is only necessary to say, that the Wilson bill was never intended to improve the business of this country. It was not enacted for that purpose. Its purpose was to stimulate the importation of foreign goods which in effect is to take away business from the workingmen and the capital of this country. The reason business is reviving since the election is that the result at the polls is a declaration on the part of the people that the Democratic party must cease stimulating foreign importations and that the act of perjury and dishonor will be wiped from the statute books in 1897. This gives business men courage and assurance in such an emphatic sense, that they will take risks they would not have dared to take had the country gone Democratic.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13, 1894.

The Republican senators can, and will prevent the passage of any tariff tinkering bills at the short session of congress, even if it be necessary to block every appropriation bill in order to do so, but extreme measures will hardly be necessary. There are reasons to believe that a sufficient number of Democratic senators stand ready to pledge their votes against the popgun bills to insure their defeat, but it is extremely doubtful whether either of them will be dignified to the extent of being formally voted upon.

The work of Chairman Babcock, of the Republican congressional campaign committee, has aroused the admiration of all those who know anything about the management of campaigns. All the world, of course, knows of the result of his work—two hundred and fifty odd Republican congressmen and almost certain control of the senate after next March—but the inside or secret work of the campaign is known only to a few prominent members of the party. They say that Mr. Babcock has proven himself one of the shrewdest directors of campaign work the party has ever had, which is high praise indeed, and already a movement is quietly on foot to have the party get the benefit of that shrewdness in 1896. Whether this will be done by keeping him at the head of the congressional committee or by transferring him to the national committee is not yet apparent.

Congressman Richardson, of Ohio, a Democrat defeated for re-election, is now in Washington trying to find a life-preserver. He gives as one of the several reasons why Ohio went Republican, 135,000 that "the pension policy of the administration has been most disastrous to our party in Ohio; worthy pensioners have been cut off right and left, and it seems that special efforts have been made to humiliate them."

Vice Chairman Apsley, of the Republican committee, says: "I suppose that there is no doubt that Mr. Reed will be the next speaker, but I am not going to be snared into making any predictions about the probable nominee of the Republican party for president. The party has an abundance and a superabundance of good men, and there is time enough to consider possibilities when the smoke of battle has cleared away."

THE report that the administration is about to issue another lot of bonds—some say $50,000,000 and others $100,000,000—finds many believers, notwithstanding Secretary Carlisle's positive denial. There are two reasons for this. First, the report originated with friends of Mr. Cleveland, and was accompanied by the statement that Mr. Carlisle was opposed to another issue of bonds without congressional action authorizing it and that Mr. Cleveland had taken the matter into his own hands, believing that the necessity for strengthening the gold reserve was urgent and that congress would not authorize it if it were left to decide the matter; and second, the known need of the Treasury for more money, owing to the failure of the new tariff to produce the amount of revenue that was anticipated. Whatever the administration may or may not do before congress assembles, the bond question is likely to be a live one during the session of congress.

When the sweeping nature of the Republican victory is considered, the Republicans have been very modest in their demonstrations of joy. For the most part they have confined themselves to quiet congratulations over the prospect which that victory gives of a permanent revival of prosperity throughout the country, now that business men have something solid upon which to base their future calculations, something which they have lacked for two years, and without which no country can enjoy a real and permanent prosperity. It is regarded as really more of a business than a political victory, and Republicans are all the more proud of it on that account.

MANY people, when a little constipated make the mistake of using saline or other drastic purgatives. All that is needed is a mild dose of Ayer's Pills to restore the regular movement of the bowels, and nature will do the rest.
 They keep the system in perfect order.

Dun's weekly Review puts the business situation as affected by the election in a nutshell. Last Saturday it said:

Business has been waiting the greater part of the past week, and the elections are expected to give it a sharp stimulus.
 Whether men are right or wrong in expecting better things, the fact that they expect them does tend to make things better. Thus a large volume of trade might be anticipated, although no political events can alter the size of the corn crop, nor make the demand for wheat or cotton close to the supply.
 Neither can the election returns alter the tariff, and if any industry is affected by it, favorably or unfavorably, the situation is exactly the same as it was before the people voted, at least for some time to come. But it is fair to infer that further modifications of the tariff are rendered less probable by the election Tuesday.

STORY AND SONGS OF IRE-LAND.

John F. Finerty at the Grand Opera House.

An Eloquent Lecture on the Military,
 Patriotic, Religious and Civic History of the Irish Race—Songs by M. J. Murphy.

The audience at the Grand Opera house to hear Hon. John F. Finerty's lecture on the "Story and Songs of Ireland" was not such an audience as should have greeted the able speaker and Mr. M. J. Murphy, the singer, who accompanied him. The small audience was not due to a lack of appreciation of the abilities of Mr. Finerty by our people, for no public speaker who has appeared on a platform in Decatur has more admirers than he. Those who failed to hear him missed one of the most entertaining and instructive lectures ever delivered in the city. His lecture was divided into six parts, and covered the entire period of the history of the race.
 The interludes in the lecture were filled by M. J. Murphy, who sang Irish songs appropriate to the period covered by the preceding part of the lecture.

The lecturer was introduced by the Very Rev. P. J. Mackin. He first spoke of Pagan Ireland, when her people were sun worshippers. Then of Christian Ireland and poetic Ireland, which are represented on the Irish flag, respectively, by the "sun burst," the "shamrock," the symbol of the trinity, and the "harp," representing the bards of the nation. He said that no Irishman need be ashamed of his country or his ancestors; that the much-boasted Anglo-Saxon at one time were the abject slaves of the Norman Kings and wore brass collars about their necks upon which was inscribed the name of the Norman who owned the man. No Irishman had ever in those days wore anyones brass collar. He described the scenes when King Brian, Art. MacMur-rough, Hugh O'Neill, Owen Roe O'Neill, Sarsfield and Clare led the sons of Ireland on the field of battle for Irish freedom. He spoke of the bigoted Catholic, Bloody Mary and the agnostic Queen Elizabeth and also of the fact that the reformation was offered Ireland at the point of the sword and the pike.
 He told how in nearly all the contests for the cause of Ireland its people were led by Protestant Irishmen, the last being Charles Stewart Parnell.

The lecture from beginning to end was beautiful and inspiring and the songs rendered by Mr. Murphy detached nothing from the splendid entertainment.

LEAGUE ENTERTAINMENT.

Special Exercises at the Presbyterian Church Last Night.

Nearly 200 ladies and friends were entertained in handsome style last night at the Presbyterian church by the courteous members of the Gentlemen's League. It was a reception for the ladies. This program was observed:

Mandolins..... Wyoming Club
 Vocal Solo..... Charles W. Montgomery
 Violin Solo..... Jean Mannheim
 Duet—"Wandering in May Time"
 Messrs. Bunn and Alexander
 Parallel Bars..... Men's Class
 Vocal Solo..... Frank E. Bunn
 Mandolins..... Wyoming Club

The participants were warmly applauded. Delicious refreshments were served in the parlors by the gentlemen who demonstrated that they could do the honors gracefully and well. Chrysanthemums were the souvenirs. The committee was as follows: G. A. Stadler, chairman, D. W. Heilmann, W. L. Dumont, W. O. Rich, T. A. Bone, Charles E. Lindsay, W. H. Suffer, I. N. Cool,
 Charles R. Murphy, Robert I. Hunt, W.
 J. Hostetter, Charles Vaughn.

The W. R. C. Inspection.

There was a largely attended meeting of the Woman's Relief Corps No. 4, had yesterday afternoon in the Post hall.
 Miss Ada Carlton, of Bloomington, the assistant department inspector, and Miss Mattie Jamison, of Monticello, department secretary, were present. One lady was initiated, and light refreshments were served. Mrs. Sallie K. Harwood, the corps president, presided.
 Miss Carlton complimented the corps on its growth; stating that she had before acted as inspector for Dunham corps in its infancy, and was pleased to see it progressing in all good works. She also complimented the secretary, Effie E.
 Kennedy, and treasurer, Carrie E. Spore, upon the neat and correct condition of their books. The relief expended for the year amounts to a goodly sum. Mrs.
 Harwood will go from Decatur to Atlanta to inspect the W. R. C. there.

Tried to Burn Their Child.

LINCOLN, Ill., November 13.—Stephen Nicholls and his wife are in jail on a charge of trying to cremate their 7-year-woman was whipping her stepson, who called the police. The cremation was threatened and undertaken because the boy called the police.

FOURTH ANNUAL BALL.

Colonel C. A. Parish Leads the Grand March for the Division Reception.

The fourth annual ball of Decatur
 Division, No. 36, Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, was given at Guards Armory last night, and was attended by over 100 couples, including visitors from Taylorlorville, Springfield, Jacksonville, Pana, Champaign and Litchfield. Colonel C. A. Parish, who with Mrs. Adam See-forth, led the grand march, was in attendance. Owing to illness Brig. Gen.
 J. H. Barkley who was expected, could not attend. Members of the Rank were in full uniform and were among the gayest of the gay. The Opera orchestra furnished the music, and Frank Hall was the prompter. At intermission a fine banquet was served at the K. P. hall by the Ladies' Assembly. The spread included cold boiled ham, escalloped oysters, salads, cheese, bread and butter, cake, fruit and coffee. On the committees were the following Knights:

Arrangements—Major F. O. Damrow,
 Past Captain A. T. Grist, Sir Knight
 Sentinel J. W. Weigand.
 Floor—Lieutenant G. A. Ahrens, Maj.
 C. C. Stoddard, Sir Knight William Ermentraut.

Reception—Sir Knights McCune,
 Swain, McDaniels, Butzbach, Evans,

THE ROYAL LYCEUM COURSE.

Grand Concert Given by the Maria Decca Company.

The first entertainment of the Royal Lyceum Course was given at the Christian Tabernacle last night, and an audience of 1300 people was present to enjoy and applaud the rare musical treat. The inaugural attraction was the Maria Decca Grand Concert Company, and this was the program:

(a) Air de Ballet Op. 41, No. 6.....Chaminade
 (b) March Op. 39, No. 1.....Hollaender
 Grand Fantasia.....Grazt Weber
 Cavatina Linda di Chamouni.....Donizetti Introduction and Triumphal March (Not David).....Godefroitt
 (a) Andante.....Clara Murray
 (b) Gypsy Dance.....Charles D'Almaine
 Heaven Hath Sheld a To.....Vilva vitti obligato).....Marie Decca
 Fantasia.....Clara Murray
 Serenade.....Schubert-Romony
 Clara Murray and Charles D'Almaine
 Thine Forever (Loin du Bal).....Gillet
 Marie Decca.

Nearly every number was enthusiastically received, the artists acquitting themselves splendidly. Mme. Decca, the soprano, who has been heard here with the Sousa band, was the vocal favorite. She is a star on the concert stage, and none can excel her in her enviable art. The other members of the superior company shared the honors with Decca. Altogether it was the finest musical entertainment ever given in the city by four people.

THE STATE GRANGE.

President Wilson Makes a Number of Recommendations.

SPRINGFIELD, ILL., Nov. 13.—Oliver Wilson, state president, delivered his annual address to-day at the opening session of the State Grange. He recommended that the granger demand the free delivery of mail in the rural districts, and a change in the manner of selecting the members of the State Board of Agriculture so that all voters in each district may have a vote instead of leaving the selection to the members of the county agricultural societies.
 He recommended the appointment of a committee to remain in Springfield during the legislative session and work for what the grange wants.

"Sport McAllister" To-Night.

Robert Gaylor, who is considered one of the funniest of Irish comedians, will be seen at the Grand to-night in an entire new edition of "Sport McAllister," one of the 400. The play is a satire of New York society and is said to be laughable in the extreme. It drew large audiences last season and will doubtless do the same throughout the coming engagement, as the play has been reconstructed, and many novelties introduced, and is said to be funnier than ever. The company has also been considerably strengthened by the addition of these clever people, Gilbert and Goldie, Joe Carroll, Joseph Kelly, Mabel
 Craig, Marie Laurens, Maggie Fielding, Kathleen Warren and others. The musical numbers introduced will be all new and include all the latest successes.

Infringement of Telephone Patents.

The Western Electric Company began three suits in the United States circuit court yesterday against the Harrison International Telephone Company. One of the suits is based on the patent of Thomas A. Watson on a telephone call signal and also on polarized armatures for electric bells. The complainant claims that the Watson patents were assigned to it by the American Bell Telephone Company. The other two suits are based on the alleged infringement of patents owned by the complainant on hinges for telephone boxes and magneto-electric generators for telephone call signals. The court is asked to enjoin the defendant company from manufacturing any instruments containing the appliances in question. Chicago Herald, Nov. 8, 1894.

AT ST. PETERSBURG.

The Remains of Alexander in the Capital City.

THE GORGEOUS PAGEANT AT MOSCOW

Duplicated at St. Petersburg on a Much Grander Scale—The Nobility of Europe and the Nobility of Fully Represented.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 14.—The preparations for the reception of the body of Alexander III. in this city yesterday were hardly equal to those in Moscow, and in consequence of a thaw followed by fog and a heavy snowfall, the procession had to march through deep slush. The heralds, on Monday announced that the body would arrive at 10 a. m.

The hotel is crowded to their full capacity with visitors, and windows along the route of the procession were rented readily at 100 roubles. The people were quiet in every way, giving evidence of their appreciation of the solemnity of the occasion.

Proceeding the ceremony of removing the body from the Nicolas station to the fortress, three guns were fired. After the third gun the church bells were tolled and throughout the day minute-guns were fired.

The Late Emperor Alexander III.

When the funeral train arrived at the St. Nicholas station at 9:55 a. m., the weather was dull and damp and chilly and the streets were very muddy. The station was crowded with the nobility of Russia and representatives from every other European country, and the long platform in front of the station was covered with black cloth.

The hearse, with a silver and gold body, a golden canopy surmounted by a crown, and topped and edged with three white feathers, stood ready to receive the remains of the dead emperor, and around it was ranged the guard of honor, all representatives of the country.

In addition to these there was a large number of clergymen, chorists and others, awaiting the arrival of the train, and beyond the limits prescribed by the police and military was an immense crowd of people.

Amid the solemn music of the band and the chanting of priests and singers, the long funeral train, drawn by two engines, with wide, flaring smokestacks, and wood piled high upon their tenders, slowly stole into the station, until the leading car was opposite the steps to the carriage car, when it came to a full stop. With candles and incense the priests stood in a group lining the steps, the metropolitans of St. Petersburg and the high clergy at the top, and the roll of the drums of the grenadiers mingled with their chanting, showing the harmony of the tributes of the church and army to their former head.

A boy choir in which the men joined and the volume of vocal music swelled high upon the frosty air.

The roofs of the houses were crowded with people as the procession moved at 10:30 o'clock. The coffin, which was golden, was covered with a golden pall lined with heavy ermine, with heavy tassels at the corners. This was folded half way back.

The Prince of Wales walked with the Czar Nicholas, each wearing a uniform similar to the one he wore in Moscow, more elaborate. This characterization was due to the whole procession. It was conducted upon the same plans as that in Moscow, only more elaborately. There were more led horses, caparisoned with flowing black and emblazoned with the arms of the various provinces, more regiments, etc., but except that the procession and ceremonies were on a larger scale, everything was the same as last Sunday.

The procession was divided by a master of ceremonies wearing a black and white scarf. The sections represented various degrees of mourning.

The first section comprised the late czar's companies in all the principal regiments, followed by footmen and pages.

The second section included the czar's family standard, the red military standard and the czar's charger, the former carried, and the latter attended by superior officers.

The third section floated the standard of Siberia, Votsebsk, Bulgaria, etc., also carried by superior officers.

The fourth section carried similar standards, and like the second and third sections, was closed up by subalterns and the horses of leading officials.

The fifth section also carried various standards, together with the imperial pennant, borne by a vice-admiral, and the standards of the empire in black silk and white silk.

imperial household, the members and officers of the senate, and the officers of the various chancelleries and the secretaries of Finland and the empire, the imperial Finlander and the members of the imperial council.

In the twelfth section were four colonels, holding the four glavies of the empire, pointing downward, and the dead czar's medals and orders, carried by officers of the army and navy.

In the thirteenth section were the choir of the Convent of Alexander Nevsky and the czar's confessor, Father Yanicheff.

These were followed by the hearse drawn by eight horses, generals holding the tassels. On both sides of the hearse were sixty pages—thirty on each side—with lighted torches. Immediately after the hearse came the Czar Nicholas II., wearing a general's uniform, with the imperial household, the Prince of Wales, the king of Greece, the Russian grand dukes and their aides, and a company of grenadiers.

Following these came the czarinas, Princess Alix of Hesse-Darmstadt, the Grand Duchess Olga and a large number of equestrians, companies and regiments.

The floor of the cathedral of St. Isaac's was covered with black cloth, the edifice built of massive stone and full of dignity, was in sharp contrast to the gem-like cathedral of St. Michael the archangel in Moscow.

THE WAR IN THE EAST

Interesting Correspondence from Tokio, Japan.

THE LANDING OF THE JAPANESE ARMY

And the Operations Which Preceded the Attack on Port Arthur—The Chinese Flee Before the Approach of the Victors.

TOKIO, Oct. 30.—(Correspondence of the United Press per steamer Peru, via San Francisco, November 13.)

The second Japanese army of 22,000 men, under command of Gen. Count Oyama, began to land on the Liau Tung peninsula early on the morning of October 24th of October. The big flotilla of fifty-odd steamers carrying this corps, together with a powerful escort of ships of war, had left the island coast of Japan on the 19th, and covered a distance of 900 miles in four days. In 1890, when the Anglo-French expedition marked the capture of the Liau Tung peninsula, the Japanese fleet, the landing being effected in Taitien bay, which lies on the east of the peninsula, some thirty miles from Port Arthur. There were no Chinese fortifications on the peninsula in those days, nor was there any Chinese navy. The Pei-Yang squadron of ironclads and protected cruisers, the dock yard and tidal basin at Port Arthur, twelve miles from the coast, were the only important naval stations, the Peichili army, skilled in modern tactics and equipped with modern weapons—all these things had no existence at that time. Hence the seizure of the peninsula entailed no costly effort.

But conditions are very different now. The Chinese, anticipating the possibility of a Japanese raid, had made preparations to obstruct a landing in Taitien bay and had placed a powerful force in the peninsula. The Japanese flotilla consequently avoided Taitien and steamed into a snug little cove further north. The landing commenced at dawn still unopposed. Five flat-bottom boats, carried by the transports from Japan, were soon busily engaged transporting troops to the shore, while the engineer corps set to work constructing piers to facilitate the debarkation of war material.

There had evidently been some idea on the part of the Chinese that the place ought to be fortified, for sixteen junks laden with timber and rifled mortars were found in the cove and taken possession of by the Japanese. Our telegraphic intelligence up to date goes no farther than the foregoing. There is an overland wire from Port Arthur to Shanghai via Tientsin, but it has of course been cut by the invading army and the result is that intelligence has to be carried by steamer across the Yellow sea to Chemo, from whence it is telegraphed to Tokio. It may be safely predicted, however, that Gen. Oyama's army is by this time in full movement toward Port Arthur, and that the fortified town of Chin Chia has already fallen.

Where is the Pei-Yang squadron? In the opening chapters of the war its commander, Admiral Ting, seemed to think more of the safety of his ships than of their uses as national defenders. He kept them carefully hidden away under the shadow of heavily armed forts, and took every precaution to avoid an encounter with an enemy. But now the opportunity for which the Pei-Yang squadron was supposed to be reserving its immense strength has come and still Admiral Ting's ships remain conspicuous by their absence.

The fact is that the Pei-Yang squadron is temporarily crippled and the Japanese know it. The people who cling fanatically to the belief that the huge Celestial empire possesses somewhere an immense amount of latent strength, have sought to prove that the naval battle of September 17 ended in a draw and that the nine surviving Chinese vessels were not injured beyond the possibility of speedy repair. However that may be, the battle certainly eliminated the Pei-Yang squadron from the arena of active operations. The Japanese cruisers have roamed at will throughout the Gulf of Pechili and the Yellow sea, and Admiral Ting's ships have failed to defend their country at the crucial moment.

On the morning of October 24 the Japanese army in Corea commenced its final operations for the passage of the Yalu river and the invasion of Manchuria. Confronted by a strong Chinese force so well supplied with cavalry that flanking or concentrative movements could be accomplished quickly and effectively, Field Marshal Yamagata deployed his troops along a wide stretch of the Yalu so as to mask his point of passage and obtain commanding positions for his wings. Wi Ju, on the banks of the Yalu, the most important town in Northern Corea, was the Japanese headquarters. It had been occupied until a few days previously by a force of 2,500 Chinese braves, who fled at the approach of the Japanese advance guard. A tributary, the Ai, the two rivers forming a "Y" with its point down stream. Across the arms of the V the main road from Wi Ju to Chulien passes, and the space within the opening of the arms on the right of the road rises to an eminence called Hu Shan.

Chulien, being a stronghold of importance, had to be reduced by the force invading Manchuria, but from the topographical details here given, it will be seen that to reach Chulien from Wi Ju the troops must first cross the Yalu, then follow the road commanded from Hu Shan, and finally cross the Ai.

The Chinese generals appreciated these features of the position sufficiently to entrench Hu Shan, to occupy it with a force of some 7,000 men, and to construct several forts on its slopes facing up stream.

At dawn on October 24 a brigade of Japanese troops under Col. Sato forded the Yalu ten miles above Wi Ju unopposed, and, marching down on the other side, came, at about noon, to one of the Chinese forts. It was garrisoned by 500 cavalry and 100 infantry with two guns. After a brief contest, in which twenty of the Chinese were killed, they evacuated the fort abandoning their two guns to the assailants, who had no casualties.

Col. Sato then pushed on and took up a position in a northwest or left rear of Hu Shan. That night the Japanese pontoon train threw a bridge across the Yalu, and the following morning before dawn the main body of the army passed over the river, nearly half a mile wide, and immediately moved to the attack of Hu Shan.

At first the Chinese stood their ground stoutly, but finding themselves presently exposed to the fire of rifles and cannons from the hill on their right flank, they broke and fled in disorder across the Ai to Chulien. Reserves, however, advanced to the defense, with every appearance of resolution, and, aided by the natural strength of their position, might have inflicted heavy loss upon their assailants had they not been surprised by an attack on their left rear from a brigade under Maj.-Gen. Tachimi. Thereupon they all beat retreat, but were so hard pressed that they failed to carry off their artillery and ten guns fell into the hands of the Japanese. The invading army now crossed the Ai, two divisions posting themselves on the east and south of Chulien while the brigades of Maj. Tachimi and Col. Sato took up a position further north, directly threatening the main road passing northward from Chulien. The troops camped for the night in these positions. Field Marshal Yamagata and Lieut.-Gen. Nohal took up their quarters in a former house near Hu Shan.

Throughout the night a constant cannonade was directed from Chulien against the Japanese camps. The missiles did no damage nor did they, as it turned out, preclude the Chinese, seeing that their line of retreat northward was threatened, fled precipitately before dawn, and when, at 8 a. m., the Japanese marched into Chulien they found the place deserted, the only indications being twenty-two guns, 300 tents, and quantities of ammunition, stores and forage.

The Chinese, obedient to the precedents established by them at Asan and Pyongyang, concluding that they had had about enough fighting when the outer works were captured, did not wait to defend their main position. Their casualties on the 25th were 800 killed and an unascertained number of wounded. The Japanese had twenty killed and eighty-three wounded.

From the inhabitants of Chulien it was learned that forty-three regiments had been engaged in its defense; that is to say from 16,000 to 17,000 men. They were not undisciplined, but nominally well-armed troops from Taitien, Port Arthur and Lu Tsai.

A third army is now assembling at Hiroshima. It will number 24,000, and its commander will be Lieut.-Gen. Takakushima, formerly minister of state for war. The destination of this army is of course kept secret, but it will leave Japan so soon as the transports that carried the second army to the Liau Tung peninsula return to Hiroshima. Japan will then have a total force of 71,000 invading Chinese territory at three different places.

ORCHID HUNTING.

Those Who Engage in It Have to Fight

Ants of Various Kinds.

On the fork of a tree a few feet above our heads is perched one of the largest orchids we have ever seen. A mass of aerial roots, bulbs and leaves, four feet through, is surrounded by a score of long, whip-like flower-stems standing up ten feet beyond the leaves and gracefully arching over. "Now, Adonis Christmas let us see you get that plant. Don't break it, or rub off the flowers against those bush-ropes. The negro takes his cutlass and begins chopping away at some of the vines which hang in front, and presently is clamping the tree on a level with the orchid. We see him tag once at the plant and then slide down the tree rubbing his hands and swearing loudly.

"What is the matter? Why don't you get the plant?" says the collector. "Too many ants—bite too bad," he replies he, with an injured look, as he rubs his shining black skin. "Oh, but we must get it, and if the negroes are afraid I'm go up myself," cries our friend.

Up he climbs, and is down again much faster than the negro. Standing on the bank he quickly strips off his coat and picks the great black ants from his neck and hands, rubs the sore places, grumbling and sorely discomfited. Looking up, we see the plant almost black with insects, which had evidently put themselves in battle array, and were prepared to fight for their home among the roots of the orchid. Not yet vanquished, our collector cuts a long bamboo from a clump growing close by, and somewhat viciously commences to loosen the orchid from its perch by poking at it from below. But it is so interlaced with bush-ropes that nothing can be done without breaking the plant in pieces, which, of course, will spoil it as a fine specimen. Then the ants begin to swarm down the stick and presently a few bites on the hand makes our friend drop it into the stream.

Reluctantly we are at the last obliged to leave it alone and proceed onward, hoping for better luck with the next plant. Paddling along, we think of this wonderful contrivance of nature to protect the orchid from insects and even, as in our case, from human despoilers. We do not find orchid collecting so very easy, for the nests of the maribunta (the wasp of Guiana) often hang dangerously near to a coveted specimen and warn off intruders. Sometimes these are not seen until the little insects are buzzing about our ears, and then there is nothing left but to get off as soon as possible. A nest which hangs in front of a fine Brassia and effectually bars the way is blown to bits by the gun of our party; then were sure the plant and paddle on before the homeless ones find out what is the matter. Sometimes lizards scamper away as a plant is grasped, and once a harmless snake glided across the hands of one of the negroes, making him cry out with fright. Another time a snake fell into the bateau and made us all get out of its way until we found it was neither the dreaded labaria nor rattler.—Cornhill Magazine.

HE WAS HONEST.

And Deplored the Racidity of the Age in Which He Lived.

"Honesty in politics" said the man who was dining at the table next the window. "Huh, there isn't any such thing. That's a fiction that was played out long, long ago. Nowadays, it is the man with the biggest fortune who gets the offices. I tell you that this country has reached a deplorable state of morals."

"How's that?" asked the man who sat across from him. "Why, there is no honesty in business, social or political life. The elections are crooked. The vilest sort of schemes are resorted to in order to get votes. Men are openly bribed. Men who get into office steal everything they can get their hands on. It's the same way in business, too. You can never tell when to trust a man. People you have dealt with for years do not hesitate to do you up if they get a chance. They sell you poor goods at high prices. They use all sorts of dishonest means to get your trade, and when they get it they at once proceed to get even by cheating you. And in society—why, society is rotten to its core. Honesty is as scarce as purity. There is nothing that is too mean for these people who pretend to be the leaders of the social sets. I am disgusted with the whole business. I had a good mother who taught me to be honest and I have always tried to live up to her teachings. I can look any man in the face and say that I am an honest man. But—let's get out of here and back to the office."

His friend picked up the check and passed it over to him. As he did so he remarked: "That fool of a waiter has made a mistake of sixty cents in our bill."

"Too much?" inquired the honest man. "No; too little."

The honest man grabbed his hat. "Hurry up," he said, "and perhaps we can get out of here before he finds it out. That's just so much money saved"—Buffalo Express.

A NEW ENTERPRISE.

The Decatur Packing Company
 Doing a Big Business.

A new and distinctively Decatur enterprise has been firmly established in our city at 254 North Park street, where the Decatur Packing company has an extensive establishment for the wholesale of fine meats and sausage, the sausage being made daily by an expert from Berlin. The members of the company are Jacob Blenz, who was lately the manager for the Nelson Morris Company, and Z. Cuddington, formerly of Omaha, Neb. Both are courteous gentlemen, of large experience in the business, and as their means are ample they cannot fail to make a big success of the undertaking. The company has the best improved sausage machinery, two large cold storage boxes of the latest invention and possesses its own slaughterhouse on South Main street. The cash outlay has been about $10,000. Fred W.
 Wismer is the chief salesman, and there are now 11 experienced men connected with the establishment.

The company buys all of its stock in Macon county and kills it in Decatur and it is therefore a home institution.
 It is gratifying to state that the company is now doing a flourishing business, supplying the Decatur butchers and customers in neighboring cities and towns.

THE REPUBLICAN wishes the company full measure of success, and takes pleasure in commending Mr. Blenz and Mr.
 Cuddington to the trade.

The company has several delivery wagons on the go. A handsome new one will come out of the Wayne Sulkyette works in a few days.

LOST HIS CASH.

A Son of Doctor Keller, of Sullivan,
 Makes a Kick.

Officer Andy Lord had a time of it this forenoon with L. A. Keller, a young man from Sullivan, who stated to the officers that he was a son of the late prohibition candidate for state senator in the 41st district. Keller came to Decatur yesterday with a friend. He got drunk and late last night he visited the room occupied by Tommy Hubbert and her friend, Miss Edwards. Keller claims that he had $12 to $15 when he entered the place. He staid till morning, and when he started to leave he found that he had been robbed of all his money.
 He reported the robbery at once to the police, and spent some time at the state's attorney's office swearing out a state's warrant for the arrest of the Hubbert woman. Keller has but little expectation of recovering the cash, but he hopes to put the female behind the bars.

Rinaker and Belknap.

The friends of John I. Rinaker have been busy looking up errors in the count in that district and are firmly convinced that Rinaker and not Downing is elected.
 They propose to watch the official count.

Frauds enough are known to have been practiced in the McGinn district in Chicago to more than offset his alleged plurality of 37. Speaking of this, Chairman John K. Tanner says: "Belknap will be diredict in his duty as a patriotic citizen if he fails to follow up this contest and expose the frauds committed by the thugs of the Democratic machine in that congressional district.
 Illinois has swept the decks. It has wiped Democracy from the political map of Illinois and we shall see to it that the Republicans are not cheated out of their victory."

Henry-May.

J. B. Henry, of Mt. Zion, and Miss Clara J. May were married to-day (Tuesday) at the home of the bride's parents, in Green Valley. The bride is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. May, and the ceremony occurred at noon to-day.
 The couple will go to Mt. Zion to-night, and to-morrow night they will be tendered a reception by the groom's mother.
 The groom is a prosperous farmer, and the bride is the daughter of Rev. D. E.
 May, formerly on the Decatur circuit of the M. E. church.

Reunion.

The annual reunion of the Eighth Illinois Regiment will be held at Grand Army Hall to-morrow afternoon and evening, beginning at 2 o'clock. Owing to the depressed times and the fact that the present administration is about to sell another bunch of government bonds, amounting to $50,000,000, a large attendance is not expected. Possibly Gov.
 Oglesby, the first colonel of the regiment, will come over from Elkhart to speak at the camp-fire.

Indiana Official Vote.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., Nov. 13.—The official vote of last Tuesday's election in Indiana has been received, and by congressional districts the Republicans have a majority of 55,674. For the head of the state ticket, with one county (Sullivan) out, the Republican plurality is 47,649. The Populist candidate for Secretary of State received 29,521 votes, showing a Populist gain over 1892 of 7,504.

GOING TO DANVILLE.

Sheriff Perl Has Paid $16,000 for Complete Bottling Works.

It will be a matter of news to many people to learn that Sheriff Peter Perl, who goes out of office in December, has already completed arrangements to engage in business at the city of Danville. He has purchased the Danville Bottling Works at $16,000, through the agency of Kuny & Johns, and will take possession on January 1st, the present manager to remain with Mr. Perl until he obtains a thorough personal knowledge of the enterprise. The grounds of the present plant are quite extensive and the buildings are large. Mr. Perl will remove to Danville with his family, where they will occupy a comfortable brick dwelling.

Sheriff Perl is nothing if not energetic.
 He does not wait while still in office until the expiration of his term for some business to turn up to engage his time and talent. He is a hustler, and for some months past he has been looking around for a location. The people of Danville will find in Mr. Perl a stirring, patriotic business man, and if he does not secure the lion's share of the bottling business in a few months it will not be because of lack of energy, strict attention to business, good fellowship and general courtesy. The Perl city property in Decatur, which is quite valuable, remains unsold. It may be disposed of in time. It brings good rental now, and possibly it will never be offered for sale. It was expected that Mr. Perl would remain here to engage in business but he has decided to remove to Danville, and no more after January 1st will we meet him in business or social relations, except occasionally when he will favor his many Decatur friends with a visit. We commend him to the kind consideration of our Danville neighbors, and wish him abundant success.

A Successful Revival.

The Free Methodists are having a successful revival. Last night the pastor preached on the "Profit of Godliness" to a large audience. Three came forward for prayers, one of whom was converted.
 About twenty arose in the congregation for prayer. The meetings will be continued all the week. Everybody is invited.

 shine to-day.

RECEPTION TO LAWLER.

Dwight G. A. R. Post Gave Him a Big Greeting.

DWIGHT, Ill., November 14.—The Grand Army of the Republic Post gave the greatest camp-fire ever held in this part of the state last evening. National Commander Thomas G. Lawler and staff and Department Commander McDowell were in attendance. Many comrades from the neighboring towns and cities were present.

Commander Lawler and staff arrived on the Denver at 4:10 p. m. and were met by the Grand Army of the Republic Post and Sons of Veterans and the Dwight Corset Band and were escorted to the Livingston Hotel and from thence to the club-room. A good supper was served, consisting of beans, coffee, etc.

At 7:30 o'clock all adjourned to the Opera House, where a lengthy programme was carried out. Addresses were made by Commander in Chief Lawler and Quartermaster General J. W. Burat, followed by a number of war-time tableaux and an abundance of good music.

After the camp-fire a grand banquet was served at the Livingston Hotel, at which were present many of the leading citizens and their wives. All was done that well can be in honor of the industry guests.

Married at Springfield.

Married, Tuesday, Nov. 13, in the county court room, Mr. Carter T. Scoggin, of Illinois, and Mrs. Lydia Burcham, of Cornland.

The ceremony was performed by Rev.
 S. A. D. Sanders, pastor of the Pavee
 Baptist church, who is at present serving in the capacity of foreman of the grand jury. Judge Murray was not in his office at the time, and as the groom was an intimate friend of Mr. Sanders he sent to the grand jury room for him.
 The groom is a farmer, 60 years old, and the bride is 41. They will reside on a farm near Illinois.—Springfield Journal.

Whittemore the Lucky One.

State Treasurer-elect Wulff, according to the Chicago papers, has decided to appoint Floyd K. Whittemore, of that city, cashier of the state treasury. The lucky man was for several years cashier of the State National bank at Springfield, and was cashier of the subtreasury when Chairman Tanner filled that office in Chicago under the Harrison administration. It is understood that Whitemore's selection by Wulff was made up on the recommendation of Chairman Tanner.

The Salvation Army will have an oyster supper on Monday night and also swearing-in of recruits.

A World's Tribute.

America Leads the Nations in the March of Progress.

Among the wonders of the World's Columbian Fair the grandest was the exhibit of American products. The Exhibition was, in this respect, an object lesson of the grandeur and glory of the Republic. Among the exhibits from the United States no article of its class stood so high as

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder.

The Chief Chemist of the Agricultural Department, Washington, backed by an intelligent jury at the Exposition, found it strongest in leavening power, peerless in purity, and beyond comparison in uniform excellence.

Received Highest Award At the World's Fair.

The award is a matter of official record.
 Nothing could settle so decisively the immeasurable superiority of Dr. Price's over all other powders as the great honor bestowed at Chicago.
